Behaviour Policy

Our Academy core values and behaviour expectations (see appendix one) are set out in the students' Learning Companion and are supported by codes of conduct that inform behaviour and attitudes both in and out of the classroom (see appendices two and three).

Learning is our core purpose for all our students. We recognise that students will only progress and do their very best if they are provided with excellent teaching and the skills to be effective learners in engaging with this offer (see behaviour for learning guidance). We therefore strive to work with

- all staff through professional development to consistently achieve a high standard of teaching, in a calm and well-organised learning environment, as well as
- all students to develop the skills to manage their own behaviours and take responsibility for learning.

We do this in partnership with parents/carers and responsibilities are highlighted in our home school agreement (see appendix four).

Our behaviour expectations are vital in helping every student to achieve success. It is therefore considered the responsibility of all the Academy community to teach, model and reward high standards of behaviour that meet agreed expectations, investing time in developing a rapport with students that is characterised by trust and confidence. In particular, senior staff, by their visible presence around the Academy, will set the tone and lead by example. A team approach, recognising individual qualities and skills, is fundamental in working towards achieving common goals and agreed standards for all students.

In our ambition to equip students with the skills and confidence to learn, we use a student leadership programme – Valued - (see appendix five) - not only does this focus students on what an 'outstanding student' looks like but also provides a reward structure for those students who get it right and act as role models to their peers. The VALUED Award allows students to demonstrate how they meet our core values within school and as members of the local community.

Alongside this, students are also rewarded for excellent attendance (95%+ in the green) and punctuality since we know that those students who attend regularly and on time, achieve more and perform better.

These activities are also reinforced by a rewards points system, recorded on GO4Schools, that recognises a student's contribution to learning in each lesson, ranging from routine (R1) to excellent (R2) and exceptional (R3). The criteria appear in appendix six.

However, there will be times when students disengage from learning, fail to meet Academy expectations and get it wrong and, as a result, their behaviour and attitudes disrupt the learning of others as well as the students concerned. When this occurs, a consequences system is used, ranging from a formal warning (C1) to relocation to work in a different class (C2). C1s and C2s are also recorded on GO4Schools. The criteria appear in appendix seven.

In the case of extreme behaviour a C3 will be issued, resulting in isolation. Staff issuing a C3 must complete a C3/Serious incident record sheet (Appendix eight).

At all stages in the consequences system, it is the Academy's aim to work with parents/carers to seek solutions, identifying why disengagement is occurring and to achieve a better understanding of the needs of the student and how these might be met. During this process, the services of the pastoral, SEN and inclusion teams may be accessed, as appropriate, as well as external support agencies, if a situation demands this level of intervention. Where it is considered helpful, a panel meeting will be set up including relevant school staff and other professionals to agree strategies to collectively work with the student and family to bring about improvement.

However, it is expected that, in most cases, a restorative meeting set up between the staff member(s) involved and student will enable recurring issues to be resolved and a behaviour contract re-established that will be monitored over time. The parent/carer may be asked to attend such a meeting, if initial discussions fail. At all times, these meetings will be used as a learning opportunity to teach and model desired behaviour and attitudes.

Appendix nine sets out the process of student and family support and challenge, both at a pastoral and subject level and highlights the range of interventions that are used to support the student to get back on track with learning and progress.

It is a legal requirement, that the governing body, as part of its support and challenge role, endorses this policy. To strengthen involvement, governors, in their routine visits, will also provide feedback to senior staff of their perceptions of behaviour in the Academy, both in and out of the classroom.

This policy will be reviewed annually and its development is responsive to staff, student and parent/carer feedback, as well as that of governors.

This policy should be viewed alongside our teaching and learning, SMSC, anti-bullying, equal opportunities, attendance and safeguarding policies, as well as our behaviour for learning guidance. The latter is informed and reviewed by student voice.

Chantry Academy rewards system

"No student should leave a lesson with zero points".

Every student's presence must be recognised in every lesson that they attend. This can be a positive 'Recognition' (R1, R2 or R3) or a 'Consequence' (C1, C2, C3) applied for disruption to learning.

Teachers should record this on GO for every lesson - using the 'Record Group Behaviour' link this is very quick as one click will award the whole group a point. Students who were absent from the lesson or those who received a formal consequence (C1, C2, C3) should be unchecked.

Using this routine should mean that the vast majority of students should receive an R1 in every lesson. Two to three students might receive an R2 per lesson whilst a teacher might award one or two R3s each day (if they teach a full timetable).

An R1 (+1) is awarded to students in recognition of them meeting basic expectations – they have turned up and got on with learning.

An R2 (+2) is awarded to a student who makes an excellent contribution to learning – this might be through answering a difficult question or explaining a challenging concept. It could be through contributing well to group work or completing a piece of work above usual standards. All R2s must be awarded for learning related behaviours. Being helpful to the teacher (e.g. handing out or collecting equipment) is not what an R2 is for. This should be awarded in addition to an R1.

Chantry Academy rewards system

R3s (+5) are awarded in recognition of an exceptional contribution to learning. This might be awarded to a student whose work is way above the standard expected. It could be for a student who has provided support and guidance to the learning of others through demonstration of their own skill and understanding. Teachers should ensure that these are only used to recognise exceptional learning in order that the value of this award is maintained.

This should be awarded in addition to an R1 when appropriate.

If a student deserves an R3 they should receive an R3 and an R1 (but not an R2 as well).

Students will receive one informal warning about their behaviour.

How is your behaviour affecting others? Is your behaviour acceptable according to our school rules?

C1 – Formal warning

This is recorded on GO.

C2 – Relocation to work in a different class

- Not with the same year group.
- You must take work with you to complete whilst relocated.
- At the end of the lesson you will continue with your normal timetable.
- If you are in years 7-9 you must attend a 30 minute detention after school in designated room.
- If you are in years 10-11, this detention is 45 minutes long.
- A text message is sent home informing your parents that you have been removed from a lesson for causing disruption and that you have a detention.
- The teacher also logs the C2 on GO.

C3 – Serious incidents such as major disruption, extreme defiance or dangerous behaviour will result in you having an immediate isolation.

- Your parents will be informed and you will be expected to stay in isolation until 4pm.
- Your Head of Year or Year Manager may decide that you need additional days in isolation and other consequences might also be necessary.

At the C2 detention:

- Your teacher will come and talk to you about why you were removed from the lesson – you should be able to say how you will prevent the behaviour from being repeated.
- You must show the work you completed in relocation to your teacher. They will talk this through with you to make sure you have understood the tasks.

After the C2 detention:

- Your teacher contacts home that evening to confirm why you were removed from the lesson.

If you receive a second C2 in one day, you will be expected to spend time in isolation but will attend the C2 detention as normal.

If you receive two or more C2s in one week your Head of Year or Year manager will contact home in order to discuss their concerns and you may have more serious consequences put in place.

Consequence (C) System

One informal reminders about expectations

- “Your behaviour is affecting the learning of others, so you now need to get on with...”
- “Your behaviour is not acceptable according to our school rules, continue with the work you have been directed to.....”
- “You understand the expectations....”
- “Be that as it may...”

C1 - Formal warning

This should be logged on GO and student informed “you have been warned I now need to give you a C1 because you are continuing to disrupt learning, now focus on your work’

C2 - Relocation to work in a different class

- Teacher emails ‘CA1stResponse@chantryacademy.org’ stating the student’s name, room and ‘C2’. If email is not possible phone or send a student to the office who will contact inclusion staff.
- Inclusion staff radio person on 1st Response duty and request they remove student from lesson.
- Duty person relocates to another class - not with the same year group if possible
- The class teacher will send work with the student to be completed during that time.
- At the end of the lesson the student will continue with their normal timetable.
- 30 min detention set for after school. Text message sent home by inclusion staff.
- Students in Year 10 and 11 receive a 45 minutes detention.
- Class teacher logs on GO.

At the C2 detention: Teacher and student have a restorative conversation and discuss the way forward and review the work completed during relocation.

Teacher contacts home that day to confirm why the student was removed from the lesson.

If a student receives a second C2 in one day, they will have a ½ day in isolation.

3+ C2s in one week: HOY contacts home to discuss concerns and sets up appropriate interventions.

C3

This should only be used for major disruption or urgent health & safety issue.

C3 = Isolation.
